

Textbook help for college students

(New York-WABC, August 9, 2006) - College is right around the corner. For some students that may sound exciting, but for others the thought of spending so much money on textbooks, is a lot of heartache.

Useful Sites for Buying College Textbooks

Book exchanges for some colleges:

- www.dogears.net
- www.nypirg.org
- www.campusbookswap.com

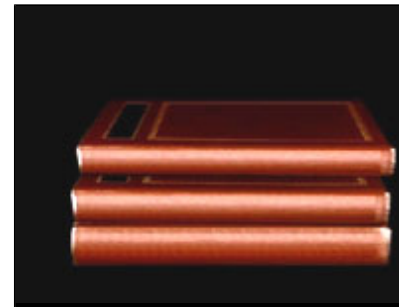

Other online sites to buy textbooks:

- www.half.com
- www.abebooks.com

College students have a lot to worry about and one of the biggest worries seems to always be, "how am I going to pay for these text books?"

Textbooks can be cheap sometimes but most of the time they're expensive. Often times students scramble to get their books because their professors have given them homework very early in the semester. But what happens when you don't have the money?

Tonight Eyewitness News has some good savings resources for college students who need to buy or even exchange old textbooks. Click on the links on the left hand side of the screen for textbook help!
