GENEVA, Dec. 12 — Abebooks, the on-line marketplace for used, rare and out-of-print books, has been selected by the United Nation's World Summit international jury as one of the world's "best-in-class" examples of e-content and creativity.

Abebooks, the Victoria-based company that began listing books on-line for small rare book sellers in 1996, was chosen as one of 40 winning projects from more than 800 nominated.

Abebooks is one of eight companies in Canada to be selected for the award.
